

Lib. R. R. R. declares he knowes nothing, neither was he at the house of the said Tovey the day on which he dyed; but some day in November last (but the certain day cannot remember) saith he was at the house late of Samuel Tovey decd: and that Major James Ringold came to the said house, and demanded of the then widow M<sup>rs</sup> Anne Tovey a Mortgage which he said did belong to him from her decd: husband, the said Anne replied she did not know of any such paper, if it were there it did not belong to him, neither was she then in a capacity to deliver any papers; after a little time the said Ann did ask my advice, whither she might deliver any papers, I replied I would not advise any way, but after some short time she tooke out two or three bundles of papers, and threw them on the Table, and the said Mortgage was in one of the bundles, and delivered to Major Ringold, but by whom this Deponent is not certain, but to the best of his knowledge it was delivered by Jonas Greenwood then p<sup>r</sup>sent. The said Mortgage was delivered to Jonas Greenwood, and by him read and delivered to Major Ringold again, and by him carried away, This Depon<sup>t</sup> saith that M<sup>rs</sup> Tovey then required a copy of the said Mortgage, Major Ringold replied (to the best of the Deponents knowledge) he knew noe occasion to give her a copy of it, neither was there any copy then given, nor any threatning or abusive speeches by said Ringold to the said Anne Tovey, and further saith not

Jonas Greenwood's Depos:

Jonas Greenwood aged 34 yeares being duely sworne and examined at the request of Anne Joce saith

That he was at the house of M<sup>r</sup> Samuel the day on which he dyed, and haveing watched with the said Tovey two or three nights before his death, that on that day he dyed, he went to sleep, and did not see any thing of what was done that day, but after the Deponent awaked he did heare it reported that Major Ringold with some other persons was at the breakeing open some chests to search for a will and (as the Deponent heard) it was upon the acco<sup>t</sup> of M<sup>r</sup> Toveys Children in England: as to the Demanding a Mortgage by Major Ringold of M<sup>rs</sup> Tovey, This Deponent Saith he was at the house of the said Tovey on or about the 14th of November last, and Major Ringold comeing to the house the same time did demand a Mortgage of M<sup>rs</sup> Tovey, to which s<sup>d</sup> Tovey replied she would not deliver any papers to any One, neither was she in a capacity to doe it, to which Major Ringold said, if shee did not deliver it, he would take some speedy course to
